

ENDLESS RING

Bump. Tap . Connect

Overview

EndlessRing transforms a simple fist bump into a lasting professional connection. The product's signature experience allows two wearers to instantly exchange customized digital profiles by tapping their rings together, automatically registering the new connection in their respective management apps. If the recipient doesn't have an EndlessRing, tapping the hardware to their smartphone instantly beams your profile to their screen. Whether it is ring-to-ring or ring-to-phone, EndlessRing acts as the ultimate conversation starter, while the background app empowers you to easily organize contacts and track follow-ups.

How it works?

Creates → Build a professional profile

Bump → Begins the networking interaction with a bump & Information is scanned through the ring

Preview → The recipient views selected information in the phone

Problem & Value

Traditional business cards can be forgotten, damaged, lost, and become outdated. On the other hand, exchanging digital details often leads to awkward fumbling with smartphones searching for profiles, juggling apps, or scanning QR codes which interrupts the natural flow of conversation. Even after successfully exchanging details, people may forget how they met. Therefore, EndlessRing combines instant tap-to-share wearable technology with a management app, eliminating phone friction and enabling users to seamlessly share, remember, and manage their professional connections.

Confirm → Users will approve the connection

Organise → The app will save the contact and user can organise based on the company & industry
